

THE MACKENZIE FRONTIER. MY FREEDOM. MY FRONTIER.

Welcome to the Mackenzie Frontier in Northern Alberta!

The Mackenzie Frontier beckons to all who love open skies, unspoiled wetlands, and room to breathe. It is a flourishing region of watchable wildlife and perfectly preserved history. Dotted with pristine waterbodies teeming with fish and abundant bird life, your Mackenzie Frontier is home to vibrant cultures and warm hospitality.

Paddle the mighty Peace River for days and sleep under the blanket of clear night skies festooned with stars and electrified by the aurora borealis. Or, spend your nights in a comfortable hotel or B&B and your days walking in the footsteps of the toughest pioneers.

Step into homes they built from hand-cleaved lumber, and savour original frontier recipes.

Fishing and hunting the abundant landscape is very much a part of the northern culture. Experience world-class trophy hunting under vast boreal forests or drop your lure in a remote northern lake at a fly-in fishing camp.

In the summer, watch a professional rodeo during the day and then golf until midnight at one of the Mackenzie Frontier's many golf courses. In the winter, go snowmobiling along 600 kilometers of groomed trails or cross-country skiing through the quiet solitude of majestic forests.

Did you Know?

History Alexander Mackenzie & the Fur Traders

1789 Attempting to reach the Pacific, Alexander Mackenzie instead reached the Arctic Ocean. In doing so, he paddled past Boyer's Post.

attempt to reach the Pacific was successful. He became the first person to cross North America, 12 years before the Lewis & Clark expedition.

1830 The Hudson Bay Co. established a permanent post in Fort Vermilion. With a sawmill, flourmill, brick factory, post office, grocery store, and rich produce, it was a self-sufficient, bustling community by the early 1900's.

1908 The Hudson Bay Co. Factor's House was built (The Old Bay House, FV). Today it remains the only HBC factor's house on its original site in Alberta. It is designated an Alberta Provincial Historic Resource.

Oil & Gas

Oil was first discovered in The Frontier in 1965. Many major oil companies are in operation here, as the abundant NW reserves account for over a third of natural gas and 80% of light medium crude oil in the province. For years, the Hay-Zama Lakes area contained the only offshore AB oil production facility. Production was phased out as part of the creation of the Hay-Zama of residents are involved with the industry in some way. Those in agriculture often run equipment through the winter log haul, giving year round income.

Richardson Pioneer in High Level has the most northern grain elevator in Canada.

The Mackenzie Frontier is part of a larger region known as The Peace Country. This region derived its name from the indiginous word "Unchaga", meaning peace. The Beaver Tribe called the Peace Country home for 11,000 years, before 1900, when Europeans settled the region and Treaty No. 8 was signed in Fort Vermilion.

rew O'Rourk

Today, First Nation People make up one third of The Frontier's population. Their celebrations, traditions and crafts reflect the rich heritage of this land. The Peace Country

Did you know that the Peace River is 1,923 kms long? It is part of the world's 13th largest river system.

The Mackenzie Frontier is home to three golf courses, offering a diverse golf experience. Come for a week and enjoy three very different challenges while traveling from one side of the county to the other. The extended daylight hours enable you to golf well into the evening, or play more than one course in a day while exploring the are.

The Mackenzie Frontier Circle Drive

Drive on scenic, uncrowded roads through thriving communities carved out of Alberta's last wilderness. Hike on wilderness trails, camp out under the stars and explore unique aspects of each location.

Spend a lazy afternoon fishing or watching local bird populations. Visit museums, visitor centers and historical sites to learn how the region has developed & grown. Plenty of subject matter and longer than usual summer daylight hours inspire many a photograph!

Located in Alberta's NW corner, Mackenzie Region is larger than the province of New Brunswick. High Level, the most central community in the district, is located halfway between Edmonton and Yellowknife. It is the last full service stop before the NWT border. Where Alberta began, Fort Vermilion is located along the Peace River. La Crete, to the south, is the agricultural center for the region. Zama City – which isn't a city at all – is in the middle of northern Alberta's oil field. South of Zama is Rainbow Lake, where Banff Oil Co. drilled the first successful oil well and set off the region's oil and gas boom.

LAY OF THE LAND

You seldom find such variation. The open flat land of Buffalo Head Prairie changes to wetlands and river valleys near the Peace River. To the north and west are extensive Boreal Forests. The Caribou Mountain Wildland Provincial Park is safe haven for native species to thrive undisturbed. Special regulations apply for hunting and ATV use.

Greater amounts of lichens and mosses grow here than anywhere else in Alberta. The Cameron Hills in the NW and the Buffalo Head Hills to the SE contrast the low muskeg and open meadows. Dry salt meadows can also be found. Watt Mountain, NW of High Level, has vegetation similar to the Rocky Mountain Foothills. We have the largest known meteorite crater (20 - 25 km in diameter) in Western Canada. Many rivers / lakes supply our water, most notably the mighty Peace River –for years the highway of The North. The Nationally significant Hungry Bend Sandhills border the Peace.

HUNTING & FISHING

Access the Peace River at Tompkins Landing or Fort Vermilion; fish for pike, walleye, gold eye, whitefish, or trout. The Ponton River offers arctic grayling and Machesis Lake, Rainbow Lake Trout Pond and Zama Fish Pond are stocked with rainbow trout. Rainbow Lake is known for it's walleye and northern pike. Wadlin Lake and Hutch Lake are popular for northern pike and pikerel. Fall is big game season, offering opportunities to hunt moose, bear, and deer. For regulations, contact a Fish & Wildlife office at 780.926.2238 (High Level) or 780.927.4488 (Fort Vermilion).

FEATHERED & FURRED INHABITANTS

Vast wetlands attract many species of migrating birds. Endangered species and those sensitive to man (Whooping Cranes, Peregrine Falcons and rare White Pelican) also find safe haven here. Bistcho Lake to the NW, is home to one of the largest breeding populations of bald eagles in Alberta.

Moose inhabit the muskeg and lowlands while deer frequent fields and meadows. Alberta hosts the largest concentration of Woodland Bison. The region is proud to accommodate 2 herds, one centralized in the Wood Buffalo National Park, and the Hay-Zama herd in and around Chateh and Zama City. Fur-bearing animals such as wolves, coyotes and beavers are in abundance with a good chance you'll see a black bear in your travels. Woolly mastodon and 10,000-year-old bison bones have also been uncovered in the region.

LA CRETE FERRY

The La Crete Ferry features both a day-use area and an overnight campground. Have a picnic or take a few pictures before crossing the Peace River on one of Alberta's last vehicle ferries. In winter, the river is transformed into an ice bridge. Once across, it's only 15 km back to Highway 35.

Zama City is one of Alberta's youngest communities. Founded in the mid 1960's, it was established to serve the oil and gas industry.

On top of Zama City's numerous recreation programs and facilities, it functions as a great staging area for accessing the Hay-Zama Wildland Park Complex, Bistcho Alberta's only annual Bison Hunt.
